Overview

1. Opportunity to share and learn from each other
2. Revisit some of the "Big Ideas" of the Bookmaking Pedagogy
3. Planning for effective Mini Lessons
4. Writing Conferences
5. Assessment lens – analyse children's books for strengths and nudges

Writing Workshop/Bookmaking

A pedagogical approach, not a lesson structure or programme

Concerned with helping children to think like writers, act like writers and see themselves as writers... not just to be able to reproduce a certain text-type.

info@lisaburman.com.au | www.lisaburman.com.au

Some "Big Ideas"

1. Strengths-view of the child
2. Becoming a writer begins with symbolic play, mark-making & the desire to communicate
3. Connection to picture books is central – high quality literature
4. Reading and writing are intricately connected – "Read like a writer"
5. Culture of inquiry and curiosity about books and language
6. The writer 'owns' the book & the process – adults do not scribe or add their marks to the child's book
7. Work with the writer, not the writing
8. "Nudge" not push – honour and celebrate approximations

The Writing Process

- Idea generation & development
- Drafting
- Revising
- Editing
- Publishing

info@lisaburman.com.au | www.lisaburman.com.au

Writing Workshop Structure

- Mini Lesson/Writers' Meeting
 - modeled, shared, interactive writing, mentor texts, think aloud
- Independent writing (or partner/small group writing project)
- Share Time/Reflection Circle
 - connect to explicit teaching point, metacognitive thinking, "What did you work on as a writer today?"

info@lisa-burman.com.au | www.lisa-burman.com.au

Spotlight Studies/Units of Study

info@lisa-burman.com.au | www.lisa-burman.com.au

Spotlight Studies

"By definition, mini lessons are short and focused. If they are not organised over time under an umbrella of a bigger topic of interest to people who write, then our whole-class teaching can have a very hit-and-miss feel to it."

Katie Wood Ray (2004) "About the Authors"

info@lisa-burman.com.au | www.lisa-burman.com.au

Spotlight Study/Unit of Study

- 'Study' is a verb – implies the process of inquiry.
- 2-5 Week active & focussed studying a 'stack' of relevant mentor texts
- Difference between 'planning' and 'programming'.
- Project possibilities...we can't know exactly what will be taught each day.

"I like to use the metaphor of taking a journey, where one finds the way using a compass rather than taking a train with it's fixed routes and schedules."

Carla Rinaldi (1998) in The Hundred Languages of Children, p.119

"We plan with the child in the front of our mind and the Australian Curriculum in the back."

Australian Curriculum Content (Foundation Year)

Language	Literature	Literacy
Language variation and change 1. Understand that English is one of many languages spoken in Australia and that different languages may be spoken by family, classmates and community (ACELA14A01)	Literature and context 1. Recognise that texts are created by authors who tell stories and share experiences that may be similar or different to students' own experiences (ACEL11A01)	Texts in context 1. Identify some familiar texts and the contexts in which they are used (ACEY15A01)
Language for interaction 1. Explore how language is used differently at home and school depending on the relationships between people (ACELA14A02) 2. Understand that language can be used to explore needs of speaking, needs, likes and dislikes (ACELA14A03)	Responding to literature 1. Respond to (like), identifying favourite stories, authors and illustrations (ACEY11A01) 2. Share feelings and thoughts about the events and characters in texts (ACEY11A02)	Interacting with others 1. Listen and respond orally to texts and to the communication of others in informal and structured classroom situations (ACEY15A02) 2. Use interaction skills including listening while others speak, using appropriate voice levels, articulation and body language, gestures and eye contact (ACEY11A03) 3. Deliver short oral presentations to peers (ACEY15A03)
Text structure and organisation 1. Understand that texts can take many forms, can be very short (for example an notepad) or quite long (for example an information book or a film) and that different texts have different purposes (ACELA14A04) 2. Understand that some language in written texts is unlike everyday spoken language (ACELA14A05) 3. Understand that punctuation is a feature of written text different from writers; recognise how capital letters are used for names, and that capital letters and full stops signal the beginning and end of sentences (ACELA14A06) 4. Understand concepts of print and spaces, including how books, film and simple digital texts work, and know some features of print, for example directionality (ACELA14A07)	Examining literature 1. Identify some features of texts including events and characters and what events from a text (ACEY11A04) 2. Recognise some different types of literary texts and identify some characteristic features of literary texts, for example beginning and endings of traditional texts and rhyme in poems (ACEY11A05) 3. Recognise the rhythm and sound patterns in stories, rhymes, songs and poems from a range of cultures (ACEY11A06)	Interpreting, analysing, evaluating 1. Identify some differences between imaginative and informative texts (ACEY15A04) 2. Read predictable texts, practising phrasing and fluency and monitor meaning using context, sound, print and emerging contextual, semantic, grammatical and phonological knowledge (ACEY15A05) 3. Use comprehension strategies to understand and discuss texts listened to, viewed or read independently (ACEY15A06)
Expressing and developing ideas 1. Recognise that sentences are key units for expressing ideas (ACELA14A08) 2. Recognise that texts are made up of words and groups of words that make meaning (ACELA14A09) 3. Explore the different contribution of words and images to meaning in stories and informative texts (ACELA14A10) 4. Understand the use of vocabulary in familiar contexts related to everyday experiences, personal interests and topics taught at school (ACELA14A11) 5. Know that spoken sounds and words can be written	Creating literature 1. Read familiar literary texts through performance, use of illustrations and images (ACEY11A07)	Creating texts 1. Create short texts to explore, record and report ideas and events using familiar words and beginning writing knowledge (ACEY15A07) 2. Participate in shared editing of students' own texts for meaning, spelling, capital letters and full stops (ACEY15A08) 3. Produce some lower case and upper case letters using learned letter formations (ACEY15A09) 4. Construct texts using software including word processing programs (ACEY15A10)

Mini Lesson

- Short, focussed and direct
- 5-15 minutes
- One learning intention
- Invitation to try/use – not a directive or set task for all

info@lisaaburman.com.au | www.lisaaburman.com.au

Invitational Rather than Setting a Task

"A mini lesson is not meant to direct the course of action for the rest of the workshop.
This is a time to introduce an important skill (for example, how strong verbs improve writing), but we shouldn't expect students to spend the next forty minutes practising it.
Rather, teachers use the mini lesson to introduce one idea/skill/strategy that seems relevant and timely for a particular group of writers."

Fletcher & Portolupi
"Writing Workshop – The Essential Guide" 2001

Clarity of Learning

- We know why we are teaching something
- Do the children know?
- Do they know what they are learning...or why?

info@lisaaburman.com.au | www.lisaaburman.com.au

Clear Learning Intentions

- Name the learning not the doing
- Children are helped to focus on the learning not just completing the task
- Know where to focus their efforts
- The Learning Intention is what you want the children to learn or understand
- The tasks are the activities the children will carry out in order to learn this

info@lisaaburman.com.au | www.lisaaburman.com.au

The 'So What?' Factor - Relevance

- Ensure children know why they are learning this
- Is the learning relevant to their writing?
- When might they use it in their writing?
- How does it help their reader?
- Share how it fits into the bigger picture of being a writer

info@lisaaburman.com.au | www.lisaaburman.com.au

Revise this Learning Intention

Make a list of verbs which could replace 'said'.

info@lisaaburman.com.au | www.lisaaburman.com.au

We are learning to...

Choose words on purpose

Or

Think critically about our word choice so that...

our reader stays interested and can make a strong mind picture.

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

One more thought...

What happens when we frame the learning intention as a question?

Reframe some of the learning intentions...as a question

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Architecture of a Mini Lesson

1. Connection
2. State Learning Intention
3. Teach
4. Active Engagement
5. Link

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

'Connection' Component

- Not meant to be a memory test
- Thread through all your mini lessons
- A few seconds to a minute as a rough guide
- Use a visual connection – a memory tool
- Floor Book/Thinking Charts
- Mentor Text from previous day or Reading Workshop
- Modelled/shared/interactive writing book from previous day

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

'Teach' Component

- Modelled, Shared, Interactive writing
- Composing and Encoding (transcribing)
- Modelled Writing – the teacher composes and encodes, thinking aloud
- Shared Writing – the teacher and children together compose, the teacher encodes
- Interactive Writing – the teacher and children together compose and encode ("share the pen")

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

'Teach' Component

- Share from your Writer's Notebook or Bookmaking
- Mentor Text
- Use a child's writing as 'mentor' or exemplar
- Role play with younger writers – procedural (eg: how to plan across pages)
- "Fish Bowl" – process (eg: have a conference, give feedback to peer...)

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Think about your current focus in Writing Workshop

- Decide one Mini Lesson focus – one learning intention
- Plan for the Mini Lesson, using one of the Planners
- What methodology will best serve this learning intention?
- Modelled/Shared/Interactive Writing
- Mentor Text
- Fishbowl/Modelling

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Writing Conferences

1. Research – about the writer – Listening with all our senses
 - This book, the writer's process, evidence of thinking like a writer
 - Identify strengths
 - Identify possible 'nudges' or teaching points
2. Decide – which 'nudge' will best help this writer at this time?
3. Give feedback – respond as the reader; or notice something the writer did
4. Teach – a strategy or device the writer can use
 - Model, use mentor text, use other young writers, scaffold, practise

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Deciding what is a 'Nudge'

- Not a deficit view of 'fixing the mistakes'
- What the writer isn't doingstill limiting view of the child.
- What's something else the writer could add to this book?
- What's another thing this writer could try?
- Use our knowledge of the whole child in making the decision about what might be within his/her Zone of Proximal Development

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Record Keeping

- System is individual – it needs to work for you
- What is important information to gather?
- Writer's strengths – what s/he is doing independently
- Writer's nudges/goals – keeping track of conferences

info@suburban.com.au | www.suburban.com.au

Writing Conferences

Writer: _____

Date	Book/Writing Title	What I can do on my own	My Writing Goal

Writing Conference

Name: _____

Date	Book Title/Type	What I can do on my own	My Writing Goal

Ideas

- focused (supporting details)
- more than a basic relating
- interesting details
- clear about intended audience
- collecting ideas from a variety of sources
- generating own ideas
- creative ideas outside of writing workshop

Organization

- sentence, paragraphs, strategy
- transitions between sentences
- question/answer format
- word heads
- this is crafted to connect with central theme or idea - original

Style

- tone (formal)
- individual perspective
- personal treatment of a standard topic
- genre of language through detail or humour
- use tone to support the message

Word Choice

- topic-specific words
- descriptive words
- vivid adjectives
- varies use of transition words

Sentence Fluency

- varies sentence beginnings
- varies sentence length
- varies sentence structure
- varies use of punctuation
- varies use of capital letters
- varies use of end punctuation

Conventions

- setting
- punctuation
- grammar
- ending (self edit)

A Tool for Assessment

- Writing Continuum
- Continuum – NOT a rubric
- NOT about one piece of writing...about the child as a writer
- Monitor growth over time
- Bring your knowledge of the writer from various sources to this tool
- Many schools use this as a tool to pass on information year to year

6 Traits of Writing

1. Inspiring ideas
2. Shaping organisation
3. Sparking voice
4. Expanding word choice
5. Developing sentence fluency
6. Strengthening conventions

+ Writing Habits and Strategies

Writing Conferences

1. Read the child-authored samples you brought with you
2. Name 2-3 strengths
3. What possible nudges come to mind?
4. Which nudge will you choose for this child? Knowing all you know about the whole child...
5. What tool could be helpful with this 'nudge'?
 - Mentor text from your Stack
 - Another child-author to demonstrate
 - A child-authored book from your Stack
 - Your book

To explore in the future...

- Reflection Circles and metacognition
- Planning a Spotlight Study
- Mapping a Year of Writing – a whole school approach
- Getting the most from your "Stack"
- Variety of writing conferences
- Bringing an inquiry stance to Writing Workshop
- Interactive Writing – linking Word Study to Writing Workshop
- Illustration Study

We teach children, not programmes.

The child is the curriculum.
